Dealing with a Runaway Board...

returning order to chaos

Case studies of library boards and board members running amuck with disregard for policy, by-laws or just plain common sense. A dynamic panel of experienced and knowledgeable library leaders will provide proven solutions that deal with these cases, while delving into the reasons, and circumstances that allow them to happen. An open mike Q & A period will be provided.

Presenters:

Sharon Osenga is the Director of one of Nebraska's six regional library systems and has over 30 years of library experience. She has worked closely with library boards and will be leading board training in strategic planning in 2010.

Lyn Hopper is a consultant in Dahlonega, GA, and has 25 years experience in public library work. She is the author of Georgia's public library board manual, Tools for Trustees, and has conducted extensive library board training in her home state.

Jim Connor is the moderator for this program, is President of Trustee College. Over the past twenty years Jim has presented training workshops and community leadership seminars in over thirty states. He has been a presenter at national and state library association conferences and is a board member of ARSL.

Dorothy Liegl is a former State Librarian of South Dakota, brings over 36 years working with small and medium size rural libraries. She is a hands-on leader that has helped with personnel problems; responded when a tornado leveled a library, helped design new buildings and more. She developed the Library Training Institute.

Top 10 Things YOU Need to Know BEFORE Disaster Strikes

(or Don't Let the Tears Contribute to the Flood!)

Timely! Practical! Hands-on!

The Blizzard of 2010!

Burst pipes & water damage!

FIRE! and, yes, even MOLD!

Libraries everywhere are the victims of all kinds of disasters. Don't be left unprepared. Attend this all-day preconference.

REGISTRATION FEE... $75 Lunch included

Join Julie A. Page, Co-Coordinator of the California Preservation Program (CPP) and Western States & Territories Preservation Assistance Service (WESTPAS).

Julie is an experienced trainer who also established the San Diego/Imperial County Libraries Disaster Response Network.

With Julie's guidance, you will spend the morning learning the components of emergency preparedness, creating your very own Pocket Response Plan, and creating pre and post disaster action priorities for your collection. The afternoon session will be a hands-on, salvage demonstration where you will learn & practice salvage techniques, identify supplies to have on hand and be able to successfully implement a recovery plan for your library.

Ever wish you could create a new kind of library?

Well, that is exactly what Adams County Colorado has done!

Join us in Denver and visit this new style of library:

Anythink™

This ½ day pre-conference will not only feature the Anythink™ concept but also LEED certification.

Anythink™ is "changing the face of public libraries"; "it is a new library philosophy that offers memorable experiences and transformations for its customers". Pam Sandlian Smith, Rangeview Library District Director

Anythink™ Libraries have eliminated overdue fines and switched to a word-based classification system (WordThink).

Taking "thinking outside the box" to a whole new level!

$35 Pre-Conference price includes:

- Bus transportation from the Crowne Plaza - Denver Airport.
- Tour of Anythink Bennett library
- Catered lunch
- Meet the architect - Humphries Poli
- View a video about the philosophy of Anythink Libraries
- Talk to branch manager and hear about the conversion from Dewey to Word Think.

The best-selling author and award-winning radio host brings his message of creative writing and academic success to students and parents everywhere!

From the 2009 Conference

"I will be taking a wealth of information and great ideas back home that will be very useful in my work."

"It was so nice to talk with other rural librarians from different states. To hear how they are running their libraries. I will go back to my library, knowing there are other directors who experience some of the same problems. I am encouraged & ready to implement ideas I have learned."

Keynote Speakers

Loriene Roy

The eldest of 8 children, Loriene was born and raised in northern Minnesota. She and her parents are enrolled members of the White Earth Reservation of Anishinabe (Ojibwe/Chippewa). Loriene received an MLS degree from the University of Arizona and joined the faculty at the University of TX at Austin in January 1987 where she teaches. She served as the President of ALA from 2007 to 2008.

Her work is centered on developing and promoting library services and cultural heritage initiatives with and for indigenous populations. She founded and directs "If I Can Read, I Can Do Anything," a national reading club for Native children and "Honoring Generations," an IMLS-funded graduate scholarship program for indigenous students. She has written extensively on these and other efforts. Loriene has received a number of professional awards.

Pat Wagner

Pat Wagner and her husband Leif Smith own Pattern Research, Inc., a 33-year-old research and training business in Denver. Pat is an educator, writer, consultant and trainer. She has worked for libraries since 1978 and is known for her practical and good-humored approaches to library issues. Her focus is on leadership, management and personnel issues, strategic planning, project management and trend analysis. Pat presents at state and national conferences and is an LAMA/ALA regional institute trainer; she also contributes to library publications. Her archived free online programs for libraries can be viewed at <http://www.sirsidynixinstitute.com/archive.php>. Pat also is a subject matter expert and library relations associate for the University of North Texas LE@D (Lifelong Education at Desktop) program.
